

I DIDN'T KNOW I WAS A COMPETITIVE PERSON UNTIL I TOOK ON CANCER.

Mine was a stage 0 diagnosis. I was scheduled for a lumpectomy. Then radiation. Jill was my patient navigator. She was with me all the way—through every appointment and every procedure—scheduling treatments, requesting medical records and coordinating referrals. She was a friend, a coach: someone to remind me to put one foot in front of the other. At Bronson, you're made to feel like a big fish in a small pond. The doctors treat you like a person first and a patient second. There's a lot I can say about the care I received. I like the word they've chosen to sum it up—Positivity. I'm here to pass it on. So get a head start. Get a baseline mammogram. It's one of the reasons I'm now cancer-free.

 BRONSON POSITIVITYSM